Course Description:

This course will provide a comprehensive coverage of topics related to microeconomic analysis – the part of economics focusing on the actions of individual decision-making units: individuals, households and firms. We will learn and understand the consequences of choices made by individuals who face scarce resources and also the slightly different choices made by firms in terms of determining what to produce, how to produce and how much to produce. We will also cover the market structures of perfect competition, monopoly, monopolistic competition and oligopoly and further topics in game theory and asymmetric information.

Course Format: Online

This course is conducted in an asynchronous online delivery format. In other words, we will NOT have any required meetings as a group. All assignments and exams will take place online through the Canvas interface. Exams will need to be taken during a specific 24-hour window online. Please note these times in the schedule below and plan accordingly. Reliable internet connectivity, and
