(if, and only if the virus is still restraining in-person activity). Regardless, students are always required to do dawn and dusk photography, which means photographing approximately 1-2 hours after dawn, and 1-2 hours before dusk. It is at these period that you will get the best light to photograph.

TRAVEL: You need to provide your own mode of transportation that is Covid-19 safe (e.g., a car or bike, not public transportation). Carpooling with classmates is also not encouraged this semester.

Remember, this is a field course; you must be traveling somewhere nature related, even if it is short distance (e.g., a neighborhood park).

This is the 5 minute video that I want you to see. Note this young photographer's reference to the master--Ansel Adams. Although this short video is just an advertisement for a camera, I find it very inspirational; it makes me want to get out, travel, and photograph. Also note that Bryan often shoots at dawn and with a tripod, which is often the best way and the best time to photograph.

Don't get scared off, you don't need to buy all this equipment for this course! However, it makes an excellent "Wish List" if you really want to be serious about photography.
