If I pose a question to your post, it will be Saturday, so be sure to check to see if I have posted on your discussion board anytime on Sunday. I may also pose a follow-up question for the entire class; these follow-up questions will be sent through Canvas email messages, so be sure to check your university account regularly. Required responses to other students must be on their original post, not on the question they pose to you. This idea here is to keep the conversation going; you will discuss with other students, as well as with the instructor.

Response:

r out of the -1 depicts the criminal justice process very well. The criminal justice process begins when police make al either moves on through the process and proceeds to the courts, or the process is terminated. If passed on to the courts, the criminal continues on with the criminal justice process of pleading guilty or not guilty. If found guilty, the process continues. If not, the process ends for the defendant. Finally, if found guilty, the criminal is sentenced and begins their process into corrections. Depending on the sentence, once completed, the criminal is released back into the populations, where the process begins again (p. 6). Louthan also describes a similar process of the criminal justice system. He sta independently, but also work with one another.

I like the examples that you provided in your response. I think that the criminal justice system is making advancements
