This is a short video where you introduce yourself to me. You will be able to use the Canvas functions to complete this assignment.

After every lecture you will be required to submit a short reflection. This assignment is meant to help you summarize some of the main points from each lecture and to reflect on how the concepts covered may have influenced your life. While there are 10 opportunities to complete this assignment only the 8 highest scores will be used to calculate your final grade.

In this assignment you will learn how to use the Census website to access local level data.

In this assignment you will consider your unique positionality (e.g., your unique combination of race, class, gender, sexuality, ability status, generation status, etc.) to tell a story about your life and how it is related to the concepts we have learned about during the semester. For example you may want to discuss how your background influenced your education or work experiences. Or how the system of inequality has played out for you? Did you benefit in some respects? Did you receive any penalties?

Three exams are scheduled for this class. Exams will consist of multiple choice and short answer questions. Note that while exam three is not comprehensive per se, some material from lecture 1 and 2 will also be covered on this exam.
