Noah has more than 15 years of attest, legal, IT and regulatory compliance experience. Noah sets the strategy and oversees execution of strategy at The Network Firm. While Noah advises public blockchain and virtual currency clients on myriad industry-specific issues, his expertise lies in licensing, IT & Security matters as well as attest and assurance reporting for Exchanges, Asset-backed token issuers, lenders and blockchain and crypto-currency startups. Noah and partners created and launched the world's first application of real-time attest technology in 2018. Noah is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA Florida Institute of Certified Public Accountants (FICPA), a a former member of the California Bar Association and International Association of Privacy Professionals (IAPP).

Noah has served in active roles for working groups with the AICPA and Chamber of Digital Commerce (CODC) since 2018 and hods a current seat on the Steering Committee for C4's Cryptocurrency Security Standard (CCSS). Noah holds a Bachelor of Business Administration & Economics from the University of Nevada Reno and a Juris Doctorate from the University of San Diego.

Shehan Chandrasekera, Head of Tax Strategy, CoinTracker

Shehan is one of the handful of CPAs in the country who is recognized as a subject matter expert on cryptocurrency taxation He is the Head of Tax Strategy at CoinTracker, a Forbes Crypto T Analyst and a CPE instructor who has won multiple awards. Sheh is a renowned speaker who has done speaking engagements wit many organizations including Google, Coinbase, Square, Conser Coindesk, Lyft, AICPA, American Bar Association, and a plethora state CPA Societies.

Matthew L. Dimon Associate, Fenwick & West

Matthew concentrates his practice on a wide variety of domestic and international tax matters, including both tax planning and tax controversy. Matthew has worked with clients from equally varied backgrounds, including cutting-edge startups and large Fortune 100 companies. During law school, Matthew was president of the Tax

Seoyoung Kim Associate Professor of Finance and Business Analytics, Santa Clara University
Seoyoung

Sean McElroy, Associate, Fenwick & West

Sean advises clients, including early-stage startups, unicorns, and Fortune 100 multinationals on a wide array of domestic and international tax planning and tax controversy matters. Sean has particular expertise advising clients on tax matters related to blockchain and cryptocurrency ecosystems. He has advised numerous clients on tax issues relating to token generation events, private token sales, NFTs, decentralized autonomous organizations (DAOs), and centralized and decentralized cryptocurrency structures. Sean's clients in this space include protocol development teams, founders, investment platforms, cryptocurrency exchanges, and individual investors. Sean also has experience representing clients in tax controversies. He has represented large multinational companies in advance pricing agreements, tax arbitrations, administrative proceedings against the IRS, in U.S. District Court, and in the U.S. Tax Court. Sean has also represented taxpayers in controversies relating to the taxation of cryptocurrency. Sean has advised several Fortune 100 companies on international and domestic tax planning matters, including transfer pricing, foreign tax credit utilization, GILTI, Subpart F, and international M&A restructurings. Sean has been a lecturer in law at Stanford Law School, where he taught a course in Blockchain Tax. He has also spoken at events hosted by IFA and the American Bar Association on the taxation of cryptocurrency. During law school, Sean was a member of the Stanford Law Review, and was a student Bradley Fellow at the Stanford Constitutional Law Center. He clerked for the Honorable

Christopher Wrobel, Special Counsel to the Associate Chief Counsel (Income Tax & Accounting), IRS Office of Chief Counsel

Christopher provides legal guidance to the Associate Chief Counsel (Income Tax & Accounting) ("IT&A") in the IRS National Office in matters pertaining to regulatory and other IRS published guidance projects within IT&A's jurisdiction. Prior to joining IT&A in 2014, Christopher served for eight years as an attorney with the IRS Office of Division Counsel (Large Business & International) in Washington, DC, where he was responsible for litigation and providing legal advice to the IRS during examinations of large taxpayers. In addition to his experience with the IRS Office of Chief Counsel, Christopher served as a law clerk to the Honorable Susan G. Braden of the United States Court of Federal Claims, and as an attorney at a Washington, DC law firm.